“PSYCHO KILLER BLOODBATH” now available for early review.

The independent film, PSYCHO KILLER BLOODBATH, is now available for early review by media professionals. PSYCHO KILLER BLOODBATH was produced by Gothic Films, a Huntsville, Texas-based independent movie studio which is owned and operated by local Huntsville business leader, and founder of the Universal Ethician Church, Bishop George H. Russell. www.gothicfilms.biz www.salvationnetwork.org

In production for the last 1½ years, PSYCHO KILLER BLOODBATH is a hard-hitting and extreme horror film that is intended as social commentary on the violence that has permeated into the fabric of American culture. From domestic politics to foreign policy to opinion entertainment, a river of anger seems to cut through the landscape. The world now seems to exist in a state where insane violence seems to be a “remedy” that far too many people are too quick to employ and rational discussion seems to be lost in the political and social noise.

Set in Huntsville, Texas, the site of Texas’s infamous Death Row which has earned the name “City of Death” (www.cityofdeath.org) across the globe, this film explores a world where the inmates take charge of the asylum – literally and figuratively – and society-at-large pays the price. Rational discourse devolves into chaos as the protagonists are pushed to the very edge of sanity and turn on one another in the face of violent terror. In the end, can those who represent society’s structure and its future withstand the onslaught or will they, too, descend into madness and risk become even worse than the psychopaths?

PSYCHO KILLER BLOODBATH is the fifth project from Gothic Films/Ethician Arts, the completely independent Texas-based studio which also produced the award-winning feature films, LONG PIG and NAKED HORROR.

About PSYCHO KILLER BLOODBATH

In this bloody tale of murder and mayhem, two stories collide as a small town in Texas comes under siege by an army of the most psychotic murderers in existence. First, in the maximum detention wing of the Russell Institute for the Criminally Insane, two women - a young doctor and a veteran nurse - face unspeakable horror as the inmates who have been incarcerated there escape and embark upon a rampage of violence. Subjected to brutal violation, these trapped women must summon the strength to survive and escape the maniac bloodbath. Outside the facility, young college students are targeted as they party at an abandoned house in the middle of an isolated forest. An evening of celebration turns into a fight for life against the murderous rampage of one of the lunatics who has escaped from a mental institution.
