Global Digital Company Partners With Huntsville, Texas Film Festival!

WWW.APHRODITECINEFEST.COM

January 28, 2011

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

The digital distribution company, UBFILM, partners with The Aphrodite Cinefest International in Huntsville, Texas to promote independent films. President of UBFilm, Ford Austin, has negotiated an agreement with the film festival wherein movies selected for screening will be offered distribution by the digital download company.

“UBFilm will be available to 50 million viewers and 270 million handheld devices, so the opportunity for exposure as a result of being screened at the festival is tremendous,” said festival director and programmer, Carlo Rodriguez. “Filmmakers will be given a greater chance to have their movies seen by wider audiences, and it all starts at The Aphrodite Cinefest International!” Rodriguez further added, “UBFilm is more than a distribution company, though. It also funds projects and produces them which makes it an independent filmmaker’s new best friend.”

The Aphrodite Cinefest International will be held on February 11-12 in Huntsville, Texas. More than 20 screenings of feature films, short films, music videos, and trailers will be shown during the event. The festival will take place at the Smither Warehouse at 1405 University Avenue, Huntsville, Texas. Admission to the festival is $10 for a weekend pass that will allow patrons to see all films. WARNING: Some films may not be suitable for children under the age of 18. The event is presented by Gothic Films, an independent movie studio based in Huntsville, Texas, owned and operated by Huntsville business leader, George H. Russell. www.gothicfilms.biz
